Not illustrated. 1916 Excerpt: .training shop may be presented in the auditorium by the boys and by the workmen themselves. No workman should be permitted to earn more than his salary and the cost of his material. The help of the boys should only balance the time required by the boys from the workman. The school engineer may have boys studying the heating, lighting and ventilating plant in the same way. The school clerk may have several children assisting in turns with the clerical and store room work of the school. Students may assist in managing the auditorium, as science laboratory assistants, as assistants on the playground and in the drawing and music studios. The community activities of the school provide the need for children to assume responsibility; to do things accurately, promptly and regularly; and to become familiar with tools, processes and general industrial and commercial conditions. The girls in the domestic science classes may assume the responsibility of running the school lunch rooms and the business training so secured will round out and complete the training secured from the domestic science classes. You might as well try to teach children to swim without water in which to swim as to try to teach them to work without real work to do. The child must not only have a place to work, tools to work with and a master workman to direct his work, but there must be real work to do, and it must be done under normal...
