A mighty nation has bent in grief! The sable symbols of bursting hearts have been hung out everywhere! In sackcloth and ashes what millions have thronged God s altars! Each day has been like a Sabbath! The ways of commerce and trade have been deserted! Men have moved about as though the day of doom had come - stunned and bewildered over the strange thing which has come to pass! God has made the nation to drink the wine of astonishment! We have been as those that dream! And it will be many days yet before the people shall have waked from their trance to the sad reality, that he who has been a prince and a father to them during these years of awful trial is with them no more. It is no small nor common grief which pierces the heart of this people; and it will be long ere that grief shall have spent its force. There is nothing like a common suffering to soften and weld human hearts! The survivors of the wreck: the few of the forlorn hope who come through the breach; the last hundred of the besieged, whose numbers have dwindled from thousands to scores, by being partakers in a common calamity, are forever bound together by a cord of sympathy and fellowship which cannot be broken. And we who have been in the ship during these awful storms, and seen how she has labored and fought...
